Description

PWL-F adopts the principle of magnetic filed control to make and break the contacts of the reed tube. It has the characteristics of long service life, free of maintenance, anti vibration, no electric sparks, explosion-proof features.

Tens of thousands of sensors applied annually in the fields such as generators, yachts, trucks and construction machinery. The output signals can be resistance signals or current and voltage signals. Customization on probe length, electronic connector and accuracy is feasible.

Let Pokcenser provide timely and tailored solutions for your production and industrial control. Welcome your inquiry.
